

The remote repository is just another local repository that exists on another machine (in this case, a GitHub server).

